GOVERNOR BEHIND CURTIS

Commissioner Delays Action; Awaits Official News of of Organization

Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis broke his silence today to declare that when he had evidence or official information that a union of Boston policemen existed he would take steps to enforce the rules of the department in accordance with the law.

It was the first decisive utterance by the commissioner since the exclusive announcement by the American that he was preparing to suspend and discharge officers who joined the union. His statement, rather lengthy, came following a series of rumors as regards the nature of the next move he would make in the tense situation.

His words substantiated earlier reports in the American in regard to what he would do. The statement came at about the same hour the policemen were gathering at Pay Hall to elect officers for their union.

Governor Coolidge today reiterated his statement of Saturday to a Sunday Advertiser reporter regarding the police situation. The Governor will stand behind Commissioner Curtis in

SUGAR MEN BEFORE U.S. JURORS

Pelletier Gets Evidence of Big Sugar Storage; Gives It to Federal Authorities

Following District Attorney Pelletier's discovery of 5,000,000 pounds of sugar in the Mystic Terminal Railroad Company's warehouse in Charlestown, United States officials today began a searching investigation of charges of sugar hoarding on a gigantic scale in Boston.

Twenty big wholesale dealers in sugar were summoned before the Federal Grand Jury to tell what they knew of the situation.

A score of Department of Justice agents were also before the Grand Jury to tell the result of an investigation of profiteering which began more than a week ago.

The sudden turning of the searchlight on the sugar situation was considered significant, in view of the vast stores found in Charlestown. While State authorities may not confiscate this and other supplies, Federal officials may seize it as evidence of hoarding.

District Attorney Pelletier informed the Federal authorities of his discovery of the immense stores of sugar in the Charlestown warehouse after an investigation conducted by Police Inspectors Flaherty and Flinn.

The inspectors declare that they found:

Granulated sugar, 1,745,000 pounds.
Cube sugar, 52,500 pounds.
Brown sugar, 137,000 pounds.
Syrup, 235,000 pounds.

United States District Attorney Thomas J. Boynton was supplied with the information in the hands of Mr.

A Tenant for Every Room Every Day in the Year

People who make a business of renting rooms know that a room standing empty, even for a short time, makes a hole in the profits that is hard to make up.

Renting rooms is a highly profitable business when there are no losses of this sort, and there's no need for a single vacancy. You could fill your room ten times over if you knew how to reach the thousands of people who are looking for homelike rooms.

People who advertise their rooms in the AMERICAN are backed up by an out-of-town as well as a city circulation. No wonder their rooms are filled.

AMERICA AND HER ENEMIES.
TORY ARGUMENTS AGAINST IRELAND AND THEIR ANSWER

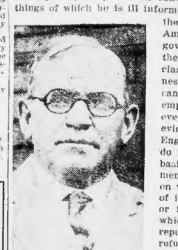
By EDWARD F. McSWEENEY,

Member of the Advisory Committee of the Irish Victory Fund and National Office Friends of Irish Freedom.

Patrician, aristocrat, Tory—whatever his age or name—
To the people's rights and liberties, a traitor ever the same;
The natural crowd is a mob to him, their prayer a vulgar rhyme,
The freeman's speech is sedition, and the patriot's deed a crime;
Whatever the race, the law, the land—whatever the time or throne,
The tory is always a traitor to every class but his own.

—From John Boyle O'Reilly's poem on Crispus Attucks, negro patriot, the first man to fall in the American Revolution.

A recent writer on Egypt quotes a proverb which the people of that country frequently use in conversation: "Man is often the enemy to things of which he is ill informed." This proverb finds its application in the hostile attitude of a certain class of Americans toward Ireland's rights to self-government and complete independence of the alien rule of the English. Not all of this class would openly acknowledge their willingness to sacrifice American interests or American policies to bolster up a surrogated British empire, whose "King can do no wrong," but every mood and tense of their thinking gives evidence of an anti-Irish bias formed by Tory English influences and sympathies. Not only do they evince a complete ignorance of the basic principles of democratic civil government and the fundamental facts of history on which the Irish republic rests the justice of its case, but they are either forgetful of or indifferent to the measures and events which marked the birth of our American republic. The reasons they allege now for refusing their support to Sinn Fein Ireland by every rule of logic and consistency would have allied them in 1775 with the "loyalists," or Tory, opponents of American independence.



Ireland's struggle in the twentieth century to free herself from the injustice of English oppression finds an exact parallel in the fight made

SENATORS URGED TO RATIFY

Wilson Declares That the Only Way to Prevent World-Wide Suffering This Winter

Washington, Aug. 19.—President Wilson today again urged the Senate immediately to ratify the Versailles treaty, in a lengthy statement, which he read as soon as the hearings with the committee began at the White House. The President declared that the present unrest throughout the country could not be ended until peace was actuality.

The President threw a bombshell into the committee before he finished his statement, when he declared that there could be no objection to interpretations accompanying the ratification of the treaty, as long as such interpretations do not form a part of the formal ratification itself. His objection to making such interpretations a part of the formal resolution of ratification was that long delay would be the inevitable consequence, as all of the governments concerned would have to accept, in effect, the language of the senate as the language of the treaty before ratification would be complete.

FISH PRICES DROP WITH ARRIVAL OF BIG SUPPLY

It looked like old times at the Boston Fish Pier, South Boston today with five steam trawlers, four schooners and several smaller craft bringing in about half a million pounds of fish. Wholesale prices dropped off sharply. Altogether the dealers had a chance to bid on 1,500,000 pounds of haddock, 600,000 pounds of cod, 18,000 pounds of hake and quantities of other varieties. The biggest catch was hauled by the Canadian steamer Halaine, with 160,000 pounds, for which she received 110,000. Haddock sold today at 1½ and 5 cents wholesale, as against 7 cents yesterday; other prices were: Large cod, 11 and 12 cents; small cod, 7 and 8 cents; pollock, 7 and 8 cents; hake, 5 and 8 cents.

Braves Field, Aug. 19.—The St. Louis Cardinals lined up today for their last appearance of the season in Boston in a double-header with the Braves.

The eighth rain left the field heavy and slippery, but when the weather turned warm, Manager Stallings decided to stage the games, as yesterday's double-header had already been transferred for the final Braves' series at St. Louis.

A hot double clash was in the making, as both teams were anxious to get a firm hold on sixth place in the race, and both since recent trades and shifts are much more classy than their lowly position in the race would indicate.

MALDEN BOY CRUSHED TO DEATH BY ELEVATOR

James Logue, aged fifteen, of No. 201 Adams street, Malden, was crushed to death by a freight elevator, between the fifth and sixth floors, at the Hathaway building, No. 184 Summer street, shortly after noon today. Firemen were summoned to chop out the body.

EIGHTH CAVALRY PURSUES BANDITS

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 19.—American troops have crossed the border into Mexico at a point near Candelaria and are said to be in pursuit of the Mexican bandits who kidnaped Lieutenants Peterson and Davis, United States aviators.

The troops that crossed the border are from the 8th Cavalry and are well supplied with machine guns.

Several army airplanes are scouting with the cavalry troops in an effort to locate the bandits.

Lieutenants Peterson and Davis, who were rescued from the bandits early today, are said to be with the cavalry leading them to the rendezvous of the bandits.

FATALLY HURT, HELD IN CELL AT REVERE

How a fatally injured youth was held in a cell by the Revere police came to light today when William S. McLaughlin, twenty-four, of Essex street, Lynn, was held in Chelsea Court in $2,500 for manslaughter in causing the death of Joseph Reading, twenty-one, of No. 41 Vance street, Revere.

According to the testimony, McLaughlin, Reading and the latter's brother, Edward, visited a Boston hotel, where they were served with between six and ten glasses of whiskey each. Returning to Revere, they got into an argument in a drug store, and McLaughlin is alleged to have struck the two Readings, knocking them down.

The police arrested the two Readings, charging them with intoxication. Chief John J. Dyer released Edward Reading in the morning, but held Joseph Reading in his cell, as his condition did not seem to warrant his being released. Later, learning that he had been struck, Chief Dyer summoned a physician, who ordered Reading taken at once to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where he died.

Secretary Baker Says He May Make Statement Later About Expedition

The report of the invasion, which reached here from the border, was made specific, but officials of the War Department refused to confirm it, although they did not deny it.

Secretary of War Baker refused to talk, saying he "might have something to say later."

At 12 o'clock Secretary Baker went to Secretary Lansing's office for a conference, following which he again declined to make any statement. According to the reports, the Langhorne expedition was made up of

WILSON WARNS OF WORLD SUFFERING UNLESS TREATY IS RATIFIED

LABOR AND CAPITAL DEPEND ON SENATE ACTION

at Weimar also would be required, the President said.

"I must frankly say," the President continued, "that I could only with the greatest reluctance approach that assembly for permission to read this treaty as we understand it, and as those who framed it quite certainly understand it."

Qualifications a part of the treaty, the President said, would cloud the entire document.

The President pointed out that when three powers ratified the treaty it would become effective, and pointed out that unless the United States acted promptly it would be forced to leave the markets of Central Europe to its trade rivals.

The President told the committee that in his opinion the Monroe Doctrine was completely safeguarded by the League of Nations covenant. He declared that when he conferred with the Senate and House Foreign Affairs Committees and Major Gen. White House, suggestions were made that the rights of the United States were fully safeguarded. As a result, he said, when he returned to Paris he made suggestions along the lines proposed which resulted in the insertion of Articles 10 and 11, and the specific elimination of the Monroe Doctrine from the jurisdiction of the League of Nations.

TAKES ISSUE WITH SENATORS.

"I respectfully submit that there is nothing vague or doubtful in the wording of these provisions," said the President in taking direct issue with the opinion of the majority members of the committee.

He said that as far as all of the objections to article ten were concerned, the objectors do not read that article in connection with the entire treaty. He pointed out that unless the United States is a party to any police in question the affirmative vote is necessary before any action can be taken in advice given. The obligation under this article, the President said, is not to read

NEW FIRST TO ARRIVE.

The first of the committee to arrive was Senator Hitchcock (Democrat), who was shown waiting with the paper correspondents in the corridor of the Senate Office Building. Senator Lodge arrived soon afterward and with the President walked into the President's office. All of the committee were present and with words to commence at 11 o'clock.

The President made a speech prior to Lodge on the side of this and of the Senate members. After this Senator Lodge read a statement of the reservations which he proposed to offer to the treaty. Senator Hitchcock then read a statement of the views of the minority members of the committee. Then the President and his wife had conference with the committee. Then began the formal statement of the President, which lasted for nearly an hour. Then began reading of the formal statement of Senator Lodge, which also lasted for nearly an hour. Then began reading of the formal statement of Senator Hitchcock, which also lasted for nearly an hour. Then Senator Lodge carefully explained the reasons for each of the reservations and said that they were seeking information and not trying to defeat the treaty. He hoped that the President would respond in detailed explanation.

GUESTS AT LUNCHEON.

The President said that he was very glad that the committee had visited him. He said that he wanted to give it all the information he possessed. He suggested that he would appreciate it if the entire day could be devoted to the conference, and he asked whether it would be agreeable for the committee to join him in a luncheon, thus conserving time. This was satisfactory to the committee. The President then sent word to Secretary Tumulty to call off the regular Cabinet meeting.

Although arrangements had been made that the stenographic transcript of the proceedings would be available in installments, the work of getting it out was delayed for some time because arrangements had not been made for revision of the copy. In consequence only the formal statements of the President was available for a long time after the conference began.

Attaches of the White House declined the deliberations of the committee as "courteous and cold." At no time was shared the President made it plain that he would like very much to have discussion of the treaty taken up paragraph by paragraph and each one fully explored. Some discussion started on another subject.

This he told the committee would be in the nature of a waste of time.

Senator Lodge, however, insisted that the treaty of Nations was inseparably linked with President Wilson's fourteen "ideals" if the committee was to consider the treaty intelligently. Then began the discussion of the British Prime Minister.

This the President refused.

"Yes."

SMUTS PLAN AMENDED.

Amplifying his statement to the President said that when he reached Paris he found that the British had the Smuts plan and were for the most part in favor of it. After having furnished with a copy of the Smuts draft, the President found that in many respects it followed the outlines of his own thought.

He then wrote amendments to many of the provisions of the first draft document and suggested further amendments thereto. By sacrificing this procedure and securing the viewpoint or other peace conference delegates who had made a study of league problems, the completed document was finally arrived at.

Senator Lodge then precipitated discussion on the effect that textual amendments, reservations and interpretations would have. He told the President that a great many of the members of the Senate believed that action of this sort was necessary.

To this the President replied that he believed that, exactly as he had told the committee in his formal statement, only such interpretation should be made as could be adopted independent of the formal resolution of ratification.

WARNS OF RESERVATIONS.

He emphasized his own belief that any such reservations which brought about textual changes in the treaty would impair the document, as there was no way of determining what action would be taken by the powers signatory to the document, especially Germany, if it again had to be submitted to them.

The problems of international law as they affected the covenant and the treaty as a whole were discussed as a development of this explanation. Senators McCumber of North Dakota, Harding of Ohio and Borah of Idaho leading. This feature of the hearing was technical in character.

Borah and the President had an extended argumentative discussion regarding Article X. Senator Borah told the President frankly that in his opinion the obligation under it was in every way identical with that which the nation would be under if this article had not been written.

"That is my opinion," said the President, "and not to interpret the wording of that article. Under this provision my attitude is entirely one of compromise and protection, as it is among all of the members of the league."

DISAGREES WITH BORAH.

Senator Borah contended that in his opinion should actual invasion result against any member of the league the duty of all of the members of the league would be clear, except that each of the treaty is

WARNS GIRLS AGAINST PITFALLS IN COLLEGE BOY ROMANCES

DANGER IN SONS OF RICH

Mother of Hazel Crance, Victim in Death Mystery, Draws Lesson From Tragedy

By Universal Service.

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Robert Crance today spoke a warning to other mothers who rear their daughters in college towns. As she talked her husband and others were dragging Cayuga Lake for the body of Hazel Crance, the eighteen-year-old girl who, it is charged, was murdered by Donald W. Father, Cornell sophomore and son of a Los Angeles operator.

Father will be taken today by Sheriff Green to Canandaigua, where a writ of habeas corpus is returnable before Supreme Court Justice Michael Kiley.

Grapplers searching for the girl's body around the spot where Father's knotted trousers were brought to the surface last Thursday night so far have been unsuccessful. Today John Reynolds, a diver, descended to explore the bed of the lake about the spot which has been buoyed.

Clad in deep mourning and holding in her hand a photograph of her daughter, Mrs. Crance said:

THE ROMANTIC SPELL.

"The average college boy is good at heart and wants to be a gentleman. But the romantic spell of a lake, a wildwood and the moon, not to mention the fire of youth until it becomes a conflagration.

"Every small town girl dreams vividly of the knight who is to carry her away. And if that knight be clad in neat tweeds or has a motor car a mother must strive with might and main to inculcate in her daughter the doctrine that money, dress and a smooth tongue do not constitute the real American.

"In the case of my girl I swear by all that is holy that she was good, pure and innocent. If that young man, Father, is innocent, God forbid that he should suffer for something he may not have done. But I believe a mother's instinct is invariably right.

"The first time I saw him I didn't like his looks. He didn't appear on the square. My regard for him has not been softened since the tragedy, which took my girl to the bottom of the lake.

FOUGHT FOR HER HONOR.

"Up to the time she met Father, Hazel never succumbed to the many temptations which confront girls who are thrown in the company of handsomely dressed college men who have larger allowances from their homes. And I know that had she been attacked she would have defended herself, even to the death. So I believe she did, and that father believes it firmly.

"I would warn all mothers that every girl who is born and reared in the relatively small community here there are scores of smooth-faced, youthful and pampered collegians to bound to pass through the ordeal. Girls are prone to believe soft words of flattery, and often can discern they cannot find room to doubt.

"I do not cry out against the individual who lead astray—despicable though they be—for it is a struggle for them to master their emotions, and too often they are weak, losing the battle within their own bosoms, losing utterly to their baser natures.

"I have lived in this college town too long to be blind to the dangers which face girls here. Uniformly the students are clean-cut and come from good families. Many of them are sons of wealthy parents, as in the case of Father, who, I understand, has been pampered all his life.

IN CONSTANT DANGER.

"If mothers of some know what we mothers of daughters have to face, I am sure they would spend night and day training their sons in the way they should go. That would help a great deal.

"There has been widespread reports that Hazel was not our daughter. That we adopted her. That is untrue. We are her parents and her loss is irreparable. I felt that all that is left for me to do is to see that justice is brought into the case and that be the example of proper punishment to Father, if he be found guilty, others may be led to think twice when dallying, romping or fishing in the woods with innocent girls who are blind to the ways of the world and of lurking undercurrent in young men.

"During the war, many mothers came face to face with the problem of guarding their daughters in the vicinity of camps and cantonments. It was the lure of the uniform as well as the romance of youth—thoughtlessly on both sides. Girls in college towns have been experiencing the same trouble ever since educational institutions were situated in romantic spots.

"The blame that is attached to girls in the city, for wearing suggestive attire can hardly be placed here or in other college town communities. So far as the town girls are concerned, my daughter and her friends always dressed in extremely modest garb and so far as low-necked waists and abbreviated, tight skirts were concerned, they were unacquainted with such dress.

"If sometimes seems like a losing battle for us mothers, for it is not exactly a struggle against individual young men, but an ordeal in which we must fight human nature, separating the primitive desires from the higher thoughts as best we may."

CLOTHED IN A SMILE, A LITTLE VEIL AND PLENTY OF SUNSHINE, THEY DANCE TO HEALTH

These five pretty girls, part of a dancing school not far from New York, can be found every day that the sun shines, dancing on the grass for their health. Every morning, as the sun rises, they go through their rhythmic exercises for half an hour before going to business, as some of the girls are employed in the business section.

his efforts to properly conduct the police affairs of the city. He said:

"Mr. Curtis is the police commissioner entrusted by law with the duty of enforcing the laws. I have no intention of removing him, and, as long as he is commissioner, I am ready to back up the police.

"Commissioner Curtis passed the following typewritten statement to a newspaper men at police headquarters:

"Commissioner Curtis, while declining to make any statement as to what he intended to do in the present situation, nevertheless did state that he could not credit the police of Boston with any such attitude of antagonism as might appear from certain statements attributed to certain officials in the press.

"On the contrary, the relations between himself and the men have been of harmonious and satisfactory kind, two letters of appreciation were written to him recently and he felt that, representing as they purported to do the correct attitude of the men, the public would be interested in their contents.

"One letter is dated May 12 and the second is an official letter from the Boston Social Club. That organization is an organization of the patrolmen of the force which Mr. Curtis and his predecessor have not objected to, and should indicate, he thinks, that he has had no objection to the men forming their own organization with in the department, and not affiliated with any outside organization.

AWAITS OFFICIAL NOTICE.

"Mr. Curtis also stated that when he came into office he effected the formation of a men's committee, each station elected its delegate and the full committee met and organized, and formed its committee with which the Commissioner never declined to deal.

"The second letter is from that committee, dated July 16, 1919, and signed by its president and secretary, in reference to the championing by him of the non-contributory pension, refers to Mr. Curtis' effective work in the Constitutional Convention against the measure that would destroy all non-contributory pensions.

"As further bearing on that attitude, he was willing to state that he has not yet been officially notified but in the receipt of evidence that the men contemplate taking any attitude antagonistic to him or the rules of the department, and will not assume that they have done so until he is officially informed or has satisfactory evidence of the fact presented to him.

"When he has such information or evidence he will proceed to enforce the rules of the department in accordance with the law.

THANKS FROM SOCIAL CLUB.

"The letters follow:

"Boston, Mass., May 12, 1919.

"Hon. Edwin U. Curtis, Police Commissioner for the city of Boston:

"Dear Sir—At a meeting of the Boston Social Club, held at International Hall, No. 67 Warren street, Roxbury, Friday evening, May 9, by unanimous vote, a vote of thanks is hereby extended to you for your kind consideration in furnishing, at your personal expense, refreshments to the police officers detailed for duty at the parade of the 26th Division of the American Expeditionary Forces, on April 25 last past.

"This kindness, as well as many others for their welfare put into active operation by you since assuming your important office, is highly appreciated by the patrolmen of the police department, for which we sincerely thank you.

"Yours very respectfully,

"Boston, Mass., May 12, 1919.

"Mr. Joseph J. McGillivray, No. 54 Calumet street, Roxbury, Mass.:

"Dear Sir—Please express to the Boston Social Club my sincere thanks for their kindly letter of appreciation. I must, however, disclaim a certain proportion of it because the refreshments were not served at my personal expense. I felt that it was a proper thing to do for the men on duty and saw that it was done, but I did not pay for it.

"Your kind letter from your organization pleases me very much, however, as it evidences the fact that the men understand my interest in them and their welfare.

"Very truly yours,

"Boston, Mass., July 16, 1919.

"Hon. Edwin U. Curtis, Police Commissioner, Boston, Mass.

"Dear Sir—We take this opportunity to thank you sincerely in behalf of all the patrolmen of the Boston Police Department for the many vital and important benefits obtained and which were championed by you including the non-contributory pension, corrections in the rule relating to the unnecessary reporting by night men on their off days and excuses from different roll calls. We desire to express our deep sense of gratitude for your efforts in our behalf in obtaining the increase in salary.

"With assurances of our highest considerations and esteem, we remain, Very respectfully,

The Boston City Council at its special meeting today considered the appointment of a committee to confer with Police Commissioner Curtis and request him to grant an interview to a delegation from the policemen's union. This was the result of a resolution framed by Councilor James T. Moriarty.

READY FOR EMERGENCY CALL.

Though Commissioner Curtis hasn't yet been officially notified, he continues to prepare for the worst. Today he sent to all station commanders a special order having to do with the vacations of lieutenants and sergeants.

They are ordered to secure from these men the address whereat their vacations will be spent and also the quickest means of getting into communication with them and returning to duty. In other words, they are told themselves in readiness for any emergency. Time lost in the event of the emergency arising will be made up to them later.

Advocates Whipping Post for Auto Thieves

Advocating whipping posts for those who steal automobiles to go joy riding, Judge Connolly in the Waltham Court today held Shirley Morse, eighteen, and Harrison Veyett, sixteen, in $1,000 each till September 25 for taking a machine belonging to Frank Pope of South street, Weston. The judge also ordered the clerk of the court to see that the boys reimburse Mr. Pope $200 for the loss of his machine.

According to the police the boys rode the machine from August 1 and hid it in the woods near Weston. Recently a farmer had occasion to hunt in the woods for a stray cow and came across the machine. A handkerchief and gloves were found in the machine and were identified as belonging to Morse and Veyett.

SHEEPSKINS GO BEGGING AT ARMY SALE

Auctioneer, Incensed at Low Prices Offered, Withdraws Several Lots

Despite the loud protests of dealers that the high price of leather goods is due to a shortage of hides, bids for the sale of sheepskins were so low at the government sale at the army supply base today that most of the goods were withdrawn after Auctioneer Alphonse P. Grenier of Lynn had scored the bidders for their offerings.

One lot of skins was sold to a New York bidder for 17 cents, but these other lots were withdrawn when bids of 15½ to 16 cents a square foot were offered.

Auctioneer Grinnel lashed the bidders, declaring the skins were worth from 27 to 30 cents in the open market.

"What are you trying to do?" he shouted indignantly to the bidders. "Those skins are worth from 12 to 15 cents more than you are willing to bid."

When upon he withdrew the lots and refused the bids.

Lots of high-grade sheepskins, tanned by one of the finest tanneries in the United States, sold for only 25 and 27½ cents.

The skins are not good for shoes, but they are the best quality leather for suitcases, bags, men's house slippers and other articles, and dealers in Boston have been charging fancy prices for them, claiming the leather shortage is the cause, and are also using oilcloth and other substitutes for leather in their manufactures.

These skins were to have been used by the government for the manufacture of leather jerkins, and one lot of sheepskin shearlings, tanned with short wool, were to have been made into aviators' coats.

JOHN K. BANGS SEEKS SEAT IN CONGRESS

Portland, Me., Aug. 19.—John Kendrick Bangs, author and humorist, who wrote "Salubrities I Have Met," is going to try to become a politician "Salubrity." He is a Republican candidate for Congress in the First Maine District. There are only four other Republican aspirants for the seat of Congressman Louis Goodall of Sanford, who says one term is enough. Mr. Bangs and two other candidates are from York county, which makes things more neighborly.

The rival candidates are State Treasurer Joseph W. Simpson of York, Horace Mitchell of Kittery, County Attorney Carroll A. Beals of Portland and State Senator Howard Dyer of Yarmouth, who practices law in Portland.

Mr. Bangs has been a voter in Maine for ten years. He says he is going to quit, not far from York. He spends much time in Boston and New York. He was born in Yonkers, where he was a candidate for Mayor on the Democratic ticket in 1901 and was defeated. But he became a deep-dyed Republican some years back and has been on the stump a great deal for the G. O. P. in Maine, though this is his first attempt for an office in the Pine Tree State.

He has been in France engaged in reconstruction work. He returned a few weeks ago and was urged to run for Congress by Dr. Joseph Gardner and other friends. He consented and turned to France, but will be back in time for the campaign.

BANDIT ESCAPES AFTER BATTLE IN AUTO

Beats Policeman Off Running Board of Car in Struggle for Gun

After a hand-to-hand struggle on the running board of a speeding automobile with an armed bandit early today, Patrolman Joseph O'Connell was hit over the head with a revolver and knocked to the ground. The bandit escaped.

The stolen machine, a big touring car valued at $3,000, was found abandoned on Magazine street in Cambridge some hours later.

The patrolman's fight with the thief began on Ivy street in the fashionable section of Brookline, and extended over several miles. The bandit, described as about twenty-two years old, tried desperately to shoot O'Connell, and struggled for possession of his revolver with one hand, while with the other he expertly steered the big car around sharp corners in an effort to shake his would-be captor from the running board.

The touring car is the property of Gordon E. McMurray and was stolen from in front of No. 41 Longwood avenue, Brighton, last night. The alarm was immediately sent out, and Patrolman O'Connell had just turned away from his box after getting a description of it when he saw the machine bearing down upon him from Ivy street into Essex street.

The policeman's command to halt was met by the man in the car producing a revolver. Leaping onto the car, the patrolman grappled with the bandit for the revolver. The bandit is described as light complexioned and wore a brown coat and dark soft hat.

The policeman suffered but slight injury from his fall and will report for duty tonight.

"RED" WARSHIPS SUNK BY THE BRITISH

London, Aug. 19.—A Russian battleship, a cruiser, a transport and a guardship were sunk by British naval forces in a sea engagement with the Bolshevikl in the Gulf of Finland on Sunday, said a News Agency dispatch from Helsingfors today.

The British lost only three motor boats.

A later dispatch from Helsingfors to the Daily Express said that two Bolshevik battleships, a transport and a trawler had been sunk by the British with torpedoes.

The British sea raid was carried out with coastal motor boats and was an enterprise of great daring.

The British made a dash into Kronstadt harbor under the guns of the fortress.

The two first-class warships sunk were the Petro Pavlosk and the Marla Perodvevna, which had troops on board, when they went down, the Central News dispatch added.

The British motor boats dashed into the mouth of the Neva River at a speed of 40 knots an hour and after launching their torpedoes sped seaward again.

The British craft were subjected at close range to the double fire of the forts on either side of the river, only 600 yards apart, and it was thought that the three motor boats were sunk. Eight British officers were killed.

SEEK DOCTOR IN WOMAN'S DEATH AT BROCKTON

Mrs. Washburn, Prominent in Society, Is Victim of Surgery

Brockton, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Hazel B. Washburn, wife of Frances B. Washburn of F. B. Washburn Company, shoe manufacturers, died as the result of an illegal operation, according to Assistant District Attorney William F. Kane, who announced today that an inquest would be held this week.

Mrs. Washburn died at the Brockton Hospital after an illness of nearly a month, and the authorities say that before her death she admitted that she was a victim of illegal surgery, although she refused to name the person who operated in the case.

The Washburns are prominent socially, and the sensational turn the case has taken has created much excitement both here and at Onset, their summer home.

The case first came to the attention of the authorities through Dr. Edwin F. Glasier, Mrs. Washburn's physician at Point Independence, Onset, who notified the district attorney's office. Dr. H. A. Crane was called in consultation, and she was sent to the Brockton Hospital.

Medical Examiner A. E. Paine visited her at the hospital, and tried to get from her an ante-mortem statement as to who had performed the operation, but she refused to name the doctor. It is probable that the inquest will be held Friday.

McSWEENEY'S ANSWERS TO ARGUMENTS AGAINST IRELAND

by the American colonies against the same oppressive government in the eighteenth century. To condemn the Irish Fenians of Pearse and De Valera is silly nilly to condemn the Americanism of Washington and Jefferson. What differences exist between the two revolutions militates in favor of the Irish cause. Even the seeming opposition based on the representation in the British Parliament allowed Ireland under the Act of Union and denied at first to the American colonists cannot be said to weaken the parallel. Once the colonies became aware that "the mother country" was bent on using them for her own selfish interests, no concession of parliamentary representation, no scrap of "dominion home rule," could turn them from their ideal of independence; and "Sinn Fein" by refusing longer to be a helpless minority at Westminster has drawn their case still closer to that of the American colonists.

In the course of this article the similarity of the two struggles will appear, but it is well to pause at present to remark how near in spirit and substance the Declaration of Independence of the Dail Eireann of the Irish republic of 1918 is to the Declaration of Independence of the Continental Congress of 1776. It is a commonplace of history now that President Wilson's noble and abandoned self-determination statement is but a rephrasing of the 1776 principle that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. Ireland is willing to submit her whole case on the strength of this American principle.

Those who will not accept this contention of Ireland must perforce deny either the principle or all logic and justice.

Other clauses of our Declaration of Independence read as though issued by Ireland's representatives of today. For instance, where the American colonists recite the "repeated injuries and usurpations (of Great Britain), all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states"

"For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us

"For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murder which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states

"For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world.

"For imposing taxes on us without our consent.

"For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury.

"For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offences.

"The people of Ireland are only regarding as their own the declaration of the American colonies that they "are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the British crown is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and as free state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and as free and independent states they have full power to do all acts and things which independent states may of right do."

COLONISTS APPEALED TO IRELAND

In 1775, about the commencement of hostilities between the American colonists and the British government, the Continental Congress addressed a public letter to the people of Ireland, beginning thus: "We are addressed a public letter to the people of Ireland, beginning thus: "We are possessed of the good opinion of the virtuous and humane. We are possessed of the good opinion of the virtuous and humane. We are possessed of the good opinion of the virtuous and humane.

JITNEY LINES TO START HERE NEXT WEEK

Special City Council Committee Unanimously Decides to Grant Permits

Motor bus lines will be in operation in Boston by the first of next week, it was said today, following the favorable report of the special "jitney" committee of the City Council. The committee unanimously decided that permits should be granted the jitney men as a means of lowering the high cost of transportation in Boston.

The only detail that still remains to be worked out is the matter of apportioning routes to the eight applicants for permits in such a way that they will not duplicate each other's service. Members of the committee are now working on this phase and expect to have them ready to present to the council at the next meeting.

IF THIN AND NERVOUS, TRY PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Nitro-Phosphate to Put on Real Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

When one stops to consider the cost of thin people, and how everything unsuitably for some method by which they may increase their normal proportions to the filling out of ugly hollows, the rounding off of trailing angles with the attendant bloom of health and attractiveness, it is no wonder that many and varied suggestions are offered from time to time to public print.

While excessive thinness might be attributed to various causes and subjected to various treatments, it is nevertheless a fact that a sufficient cause in many cases is found in a lack of phosphates in the system, and we have yet to hear of a single case of simple thinness that could not be overcome by the use of Nitro-Phosphate. A noted author and physician in his book on Health and Food Nutrition, published in 1918, says: "The average amount of phosphorus required for the normal nutrition of the body is underestimated. In many of our standard text books." It seems to be well established that this deficiency can be met in an organic phosphate known as Nitro-Phosphate. Some physicians prefer the organic phosphates, as it is believed that this phosphorus combines more readily with the nerve tissue. It may be phosphorus, however, when absorbed by the stomach, intestines, assisted by various agents, digestive and assimilative, that builds up the nerves, tissues and blood, and gives that plump, well-rounded appearance to the body. Nervousness disappears, vigor and energy return, sleeplessness and lack of energy, and the whole body seems to fill out in the sunken or abrupt angles, becoming enveloped in a glow of renewed health and health and the will and strength to be up and doing.

CAUTION: While Nitro-Phosphate has achieved such relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it should not expect to put on flesh should the extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.—Advertisement

Somerville and Hyde Park Demand Square Deal at Food Sale

Somerville people who waited in line for several hours to buy some food and were turned away with the statement that it was all gone are incensed because they believe the husband of the woman in charge of one of the schoolhouse stations took away several cases of canned goods in an automobile.

They declare that they did not wait in line an hour when they were compelled to do the ordinary household marketing, but that the automobile was filled. Charges are also made that the distribution was favored in distributing the goods.

The people of Hyde Park also have a grievance. They say they are not getting a square deal in connection with the sale of army food. They complained today that other districts were receiving generous supplies and that their district, a large population had only had two sales to date and both of those were limited as to price. A disappointment to the crowds of housewives who turned out expecting to get temporary relief from the high cost of living.

Last week residents of Hyde Park were promised three days of shopping at the Henry Grew Schoolhouse, the only food station in the town. Instead of three days, sales were limited to one day. Then word came that another truckload was coming and the residents waited a week wondering what became of the promised supply.

Today the truckload rambled up to the food station and a big crowd gathered with baskets and wheelbarrows and push carts, but the majority of them were doomed to further disappointment, because nearly all of today's load was made up of unidentified previously ordered, so there was only one carload of vegetables and meat for the general public that had been eagerly awaited.

Indignation was high. Hyde Park feels that it is entitled to some of that army food. Mrs. John Odermin and the other women who have volunteered to conduct the station feel that they are wasting their time unless every lax delivery. The Hyde Park Post of the American Legion joins in the protest.

Attorney-General for Drastic Law to Fix Price of Foodstuffs

Washington, Aug. 19.—A drastic system of price fixing for all necessaries is proposed in an amendment to the food control act agreed upon by Attorney-General Palmer and Chairman Haugen of the House Committee on Agriculture.

Under the proposed provision the President would be empowered to fix prices on all wearing apparel and food products whenever he found that profiteering was being practiced to an extent warranting such action.

The Attorney-General would be required to prosecute all dealers who violate the standards established.

Heavy penalties are provided. Fines of one hundred dollars doing an annual business of less than $100,000 are specially exempted from the operation of the proposed law.

Mr. Haugen stated that he will submit the new amendment to the agriculture committee this week. It is expected the price-fixing provision will be combined with the Attorney General's bill broadening the scope of food control act to include clothing and provide heavy penalties for profiteering.

The combined bill, it is now planned, will be reported out for consideration in the House today or tomorrow. The program for action in the senate, specially arranged by Mr. Palmer, was not carried out because of the lack of a quorum.

Municipal Market in Brookline Opens With Mark-Down Prices

The municipal market opened for the season in Brookline this morning. More than 1,000 bushels of new potatoes had been eagerly awaited by housewives before it is opened. Sixty bushels of new potatoes sold readily at 60 cents a peck. Corn, also retailing in the farmers' lunch room for 10 cents an ear, sold for 15 and 20 cents a dozen.

Other produce for sale included cabbage, squash, cucumbers, tomatoes, peaches and pears. Farmer Harding Andrews and even a boy scout, selling canned vegetables, were among those present. Superintendent of Markets Peter Connolly was there. The market is open every day.

100 SHOTS ARE FIRED IN CAR RIOT

Several Wounded in Battle Growing Out of Traction Strike at Olean, N. Y.

Olean, N. Y., Aug. 18.—After many hours of rioting in the street car strike during which 100 shots were fired and a number of persons were wounded the police massed to restore order.

Last night a crowd of strikers and sympathizers stoned a car in the process of being run by a Pennsylvania Railroad crew. The car was derailed and a number of persons were injured in the battle.

Joseph Pegano, a striker, was shot and seriously wounded.

When mobs numbering about 5,000 people surrounding both the car barns of the traction company and the police station, where police were arming the strike sympathizers in taxicabs in an effort to save their lives, the situation got beyond control of the authorities.

Sixty street breakers were penned in the car barns while the mob outside swarming over the roof and throwing stones at their heads.

SEE "MICAWBER POLICY" IN LLOYD GEORGE SPEECH

London, Aug. 19.—There was a note of dissatisfaction in the comment of many of the newspapers today on the "warning speech" of Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons yesterday. The government course outlined by the premier was described by the Morning Post as a "mañana policy." The Morning Leader says the whole affairs as "a dishonest muddle." On the other hand the Chronicle says that the speech is the stuffing out of the feared bogies.

EGYPT DEMANDS INDEPENDENCE FROM BRITISH RULE

PLEA TO WORLD IGNORED AT PEACE TABLE

(Copyright, 1919, by the International News Service.)

New York, Aug. 18.—Egypt pleads for sympathy and a hearing of her grievances under the rule of "English imperialists" from the people of the United States and all other civilized nations, in a communication addressed to the Peace Conference by Zagloul Pasha, head of the Egyptian Peace Delegation, which is now in Paris.

The communication was sent to Premier Clemenceau, President of the Peace Conference, on June 28, but apparently was either buried or denied transmission by the censor. A copy has just reached the United States, together with sixteen affidavits, relating alleged atrocities committed by British soldiers in the land of the Pharaohs. Portions are here presented for the first time.

BLAME IMPERIALISTS.

Zagloul Pasha concludes a review of Egypt's whole case for independence and her fruitless efforts to obtain a hearing before the Peace Conference, with this query:

"Do you believe that our independence and our self-respect are less precious to us than your independence and your self-respect are to you?"

The Egyptian independence leader charges that English imperialists, and not the great bulk of the British people, are crushing Egypt's hopes for liberty. Summing up the question of atrocities, he declares:

"The Egyptian people hesitate to complain of the cruel vengeance of which they are the victims, vengeance meted out to the name of the great English democracy, but certainly without its knowledge. The Egyptian people hesitate to brand with such atrocities the glorious British army at the very moment of its leaving the battlefields crowned with the laurel wreath of victory.

BRITISH PEOPLE IN DARK.

"But our hesitation is not due to the lack of the importance of the facts which constitute our grievances, or to lack of proofs to establish our charges. We know that the great bulk of the British people consent to what is being done in Egypt only through ignorance of the case of the Egyptian people and of the shameful daily facts of the occupation. The truth has been vigorously suppressed.

"The British public does not know. The British Parliament does not know. Is there not reason for us to doubt the triumph of justice when we are confronted with diplomatic combinations of statesmen who mold the policy of the great powers, and who, by constantly giving in to each other on questions of principles, are sharing at the expense of justice and right, the spoils of the weak?

CHARGES REFUTED.

"Is there not reason for us to doubt the triumph of justice when we are confronted with the calumnies of the English imperialists? Since they have decided to take possession of Egypt, they have represented us, according to circumstances, as actuated in our movement for liberty by different motives.

"First they say we are religious fanatics. When this is denied by the remarkable harmony and unity between Christians and Moslems working together for independence, they say we are inspired by Xenophobia (hatred of foreigners). When this is denied by the fact that Egypt opens hospitality to residents and tourists of all foreign nations, who never have had and have not now anything to complain of in the attitude of the Egyptian people toward them, they end by accusing us of acting as the agents of Turkey and Germany.

TO ALIENATE SYMPATHY.

"This is done with the aim of alienating from us the sympathy and support we have the right to expect from public opinion throughout the civilized world and particularly from Great Britain.

"Is there not reason for us to doubt the triumph of justice, when we consider all the obstacles put in our path to prevent our feeble voice, crying for justice, from being heard in the world above the powerful voices of England?

"Nevertheless, we maintain hope in the fairness of the conference. For the conference claims to have substituted for discredited political theories the new principles of justice and right. We refuse to believe that in this solemn hour of history, when there is a possibility of a new world arising out of the ruins of war, sordid material interests can completely stifle the most elementary sentiments of humanity. Certainly, public opinion in Great Britain and her self-governing dominions, in the United States, in France and in Italy will listen to our grievances and examine the statement of atrocities committed against the Egyptians and of humiliations imposed upon the Egyptians—our reward for the aid we have given the Allies to bring about the happy end of the war.

EGYPT'S HELP IN WAR.

"We refuse to believe that the British people are against us. We doubt if they realize why their government is against us. The hostility of the military authorities in Egypt against the people of the country and the barbarous acts of their troops are the result of our having taken British statesmen at their word.

"During the war we helped against the common enemy. After the armistice we simply asked for the reward which were receiving, including our nearest neighbors—our independence. We based our claim on our natural right, on the reiterated promises of the British government, on the principles of the allies, and on the enormous sacrifices we made for the cause of the allies, and which were, according to General Allenby, the principal factor of victory on the Asiatic front. It is painful to us to limit our attention to the soldiers of the greatest civilized nation.

"But can we Egyptians remain with folded arms and keep absolute silence in the presence of the different forms of martyrdom the British military authorities are inflicting upon us, especially when our conscience is free from having committed the slightest crime?

"If excesses committed against the enemy are reprehensible, what is to be thought of excesses committed against a friendly and allied people, and of attacks against its liberty and against its life? Can we hold on peace and not complain when every Egyptian, of whatever rank, must stand up and salute passing British officers? Can we preserve our serenity when our women are violated, our villages burned, the innocent massacred en masse?

OUR RIGHT TO LIVE.

"We demand only the right to live. In virtue of what law or what principles of politics and morality should we be rewarded for the aid we have furnished the victors by the application of the treatment worse than that inflicted upon the vanquished enemies? Is it conceivable that the Egyptian people can be treated like ordinary merchandise in the political market, and this in the twentieth century, by a conference that has not failed to proclaim as its reason of being the liberation of small nationalities and the laying down of world-wide conditions which will insure a durable peace?

"No however dark may be her fate, whatever may be the disastrous consequences of the domination of the stronger, the people of the Pharaohs, whose high civilization dates from the most ancient times, will not despair either of the sympathy of the civilized world or of the sympathy of liberal England.

FRANCE FAVORS EGYPT.

The Egyptian peace delegation is remaining in Paris in the hope of obtaining a hearing before the Peace Conference, or a reply to its communications before the conference adjourned. It has received many expressions of sympathy.

At a recent dinner attended by French and British journalists, Egypt's aspirations for independence were toasted and M. Augagneur, former French minister of marine, declared:

"All France wishes to see the Suez Canal under Egyptian rule."

VETERANS TAKE UP 6 MONTHS' PAY PLAN

Washington, Aug. 19.—Six months' pay for discharged service men, indemnities for Ireland, and expulsion from America of those aliens who refuse to become naturalized are among the resolutions submitted to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in conference as their twentieth encampment here.

The 1,100 delegates in conference at Baltimore had scores presented with resolutions demanding that something be done to prevent foreigners from acquiring land here without becoming citizens or giving evidence of Americanism.

The resolutions were especially aimed at merchants of foreign birth, such as proprietors of "restaurants, ice cream and confectionery stores and vegetable stores."

The Women's Auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Louisa Bogart of Philadelphia, met at the Crown Hotel, delegates being present from all the forty-five posts.

That Major Warner Darling of Kansas City will again be chosen to lead the veterans was indicated today when he was renominated commander-in-chief. Daniel J. Singer, an attorney of Jersey City, was nominated senior vice-commander and Captain Bertram Goodhue of Washington was nominated junior vice-commander.

Nomination is equivalent to election, as there are no contests, but the actual election was put off until tomorrow. The name of Captain H. D. Woodside, who organized the "Rock of the Marne" was withdrawn, as he is in Brest, France, and would be unable to serve as commander.

Tonight the veterans parade the principal streets of the city, and on the windup tomorrow they will consider the choice of a city in which to hold the next convention. Bridgeport, Ct., merchants have guaranteed $50,000 for the next convention, and Washington, D. C., has not only raised $10,000 through its Chamber of Commerce, but is also seeking to have the headquarters removed from New York to that city.

The Baltimore delegates presented Thomas J. Napfel of that city with a gold badge.

Bouquets were exchanged between the veterans and the women's auxiliary, which is also in session here, as an evidence of mutual courtesy and good feeling.

TWO MEN ADRIFT ALL NIGHT IN STORM SAVED

After drifting all night in a rudderless boat, their engine disabled without food or shelter from the storm, Thomas Stephenson of No. 178 Green avenue, Beachmont, and David McGuinn of Kenilworth road, Revere, landed, exhausted and drenched, on the beach at Winthrop Highlands today in trying to make the harbor in a tender the boat overturned and McGuinn was nearly drowned.

The men told a story of a succession of accidents that several times imperiled the lives and resulted in their being tossed about at the mercy of a choppy sea off the Graves all night.

They started out for a day's fishing trip yesterday morning. A stiff east wind was blowing. They fished for a short time and just as night was coming on set their rudder. Then its aggravate their troubles their auxiliary broke down.

They decided to anchor for the night and put back in the morning. Then the anchor rope broke and helplessly they foundered about all night.

GOLF PLAYERS OF BRAE-BURN SUMMONED

Summonses were issued today by Clerk George E. Wales in Newton Court for Edward M. Kimball and Howard Emerson to appear Friday morning and answer complaints sworn out by State Detective Frank Hale, charging them with golf exhibitions at the Brae-Burn links last Sunday.

Hale is trying to make the laying in a tender the boat overturned and golf on the Lord's Day and other charging them with engaging in a "game" on said day.

Chief Wales consulted the statute and then the dictionary. He said he personally did not see any difference between the words "game" and "sport" as used in the statute, but he supposed Mr. Webster, the worldrenowned, did.

After pondering over points "pro" and "con" Chief Wales thought there was a technical difference and granted summonses on each word, but he refused to grant a third summons against Kimball for "engaging in a sport pose."

CHEATS BANDITS OF $7,500 OF RANSOM

American Airmen Released; Capt. Matlock Tricks Mexicans for Half Demands

cavalry well equipped with machine guns.

They are reported to have orders from the Federal command in the Southern department to take the bandit headquarters where the two American aviators are held prisoners and to destroy them.

BAKER AND LANSING CONFER.

Secretary Baker was with Secretary Lansing for ten minutes. The State Department already has had that Langhorne's expedition has a perfect right to go into Mexico and that such action could in no way be construed by the Carranza administration as an act of war.

Lieutenants H. G. Peterson and Paul H. Davis, American army aviators captured by a band of Mexican bandits and held for $15,000 ransom, are safe on the United States side of the Mexican border. Lieutenant Peterson's freedom was insured at 2 o'clock this morning.

Lieutenant Davis was reached by Captain Matlock, of the Fourth Cavalry, who accompanied word to the bandit rendezvous and brought about the release of both officers. Lieutenant Peterson crossed the border to the American side shortly after 3 o'clock.

Captain Matlock, carrying the $15,000 ransom money demanded for the release of the American aviators, went into the bandits' mountain camp late last night after he had received a prearranged signal from the bandits.

Determined to stamp with the bandits' camp demanded that the Americans be released immediately. This the bandits refused, insisting that the ransom money be turned over to them before the lieutenants were brought out.

Captain Matlock then offered the bandits $7,500, half of the amount demanded, and insisted that one of the men be brought to him before he would pay the balance.

Lieutenant Peterson was released by the bandits. Captain Matlock paid the bandits the $7,500 demanded for the release of Lieutenant Peterson, who immediately left the bandit camp and started his journey toward the border.

Lieutenant Davis was then brought out. At a signal from Captain Matlock, he jumped astride the captain's horse and before the bandits could interfere, the officers fled without paying the $7,500 ransom.

According to Lieutenant Peterson, he and Lieutenant Davis, on arriving at Candelaria, Sunday, a base, were compelled to make a landing, smashing the landing gear and the fuselage of their army airplane in doing so.

Lieutenant Peterson says they landed on the American side of the river. Becoming confused in their efforts to locate the nearest army camp they wandered about for several hours. Monday they started back, but lost their way down the Rio Grande.

Late Monday Lieutenant Peterson developed a fever. Making their way to a Mexican hut, the officers were taken in by natives and cared for by Candelaria.

Both were unarmed. They and proceeded but a short distance when they were overtaken by an armed bandit who made them prisoners. They were then taken to the bandit camp in the mountains where they were detained until Saturday.

Friday night the bandits compelled both Davis and Peterson to write messages telling of their capture and containing the demand for $15,000 ransom and the threat to kill both unless the money was paid. These messages were sent to the border Saturday, reaching the American army officers late Sunday night.

At the same time the aviators managed to send messages to relatives of Lieutenant Peterson, communicating with his father at Hutchinson, Minn., and Davis sending a message to his parents at Strathmore, California.

U. S. Lacks Airmen to Enter Mexico Now, Says Sen. Mitchell

Washington, Aug. 19.—Disintegration of the army of service has created a preparatory signal from the bandits.

Determined to stamp with the bandits' camp demanded that the Americans be released immediately. This the bandits refused, insisting that the ransom money be turned over to the before the lieutenants were brought out.

Captain Matlock then offered the bandits $7,500, half of the amount demanded, and insisted that one of the men be brought to him before he would pay the balance.

Lieutenant Peterson was released

VANDERBILTS IN DIVORCE COURT

Newport, R. I., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt has brought suit for absolute divorce against her husband, Reginald C. Vanderbilt. She charges desertion for five years, and seeks the custody of her only child, Cathleen Vanderbilt.

Monday, October 1, is set for the return day of the suit in the Newport County Superior Court. Subpoenas for the defendant are being served on Vanderbilt at his farm in Portsmouth.

Reports were current today that Mrs. Vanderbilt intended to contest the action.

Mrs. Vanderbilt now is occupying the cottage on Bellevue avenue with her daughter Cathleen, who was formerly Miss Cathleen Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Nelson. She is a sister of Mrs. Hollis H. Hunnewell, of Wellesley, Mass., and of Miss L. Nelson, of New York.

The match between "Reggie" Vanderbilt and Cathleen Nelson was a love affair starting in 1902, while he was a student at Yale. His mother was reported as vigorously opposing the match not alone because of her son's youth, but because Miss Nelson was a Catholic.

Is Your Blood Starving For Want of Iron?

Modern Methods of Cooking and Living Have Made an Alarming Increase in Iron Deficiency in Blood of American Men and Women

Why Nuxated Iron so Quickly Builds Up Weak, Nervous, Run-Down Folks—Over 3,000,000 People Annually Taking It in This Country Alone to Increase Their Strength, Power, Energy and Endurance.

"Is your blood starving for want of iron? If you were to go without eating until you became weak, thin and emaciated, you could not do a more serious harm to yourself than when you let your blood literally starve for want of iron—iron that gives it strength and power to change food into living tissue," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital.

"Modern methods of cooking and the rapid pace at which people of this country live has made such an alarming increase in iron deficiency in the blood of American men and women that I have often marveled at the large number of people who lack iron in the blood, and who never suspect the cause of their weak, nervous, run-down state. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life, and may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable.

"I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations and analysis of their run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles without ever realizing the real and true cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood your food merely passes through the body, something like corn through an old mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind.

"For want of iron you may be an old man at 60 or old at 40, indeed, lose in memory, nervous, irritable and all 'run down' at 50 or 60 with plenty of iron in your blood you may still be young in feeling, full of life, and able to do a day's work with vim and energy.

"Dr. Alfred Woltmann, formerly of Former United States Senator and Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall, says: 'In the past 35 is still a veritable mountain of iron-energy. Scarcely a single one of us have found Nuxated Iron of the greatest benefit as a tonic and restorative. Henceforth I shall not be without it. I am in a position to testify for the benefit of others to the remarkable and immediate helpfulness of this preparation, and I unhesitatingly recommend Nuxated Iron to those who feel the need of increased energy and the regulation of bodily functions.'

"Nuxated Iron will not make you strong, keen, forceful men and healthy, rosy-cheeked women by feeding them impossible iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestive process to transform it into organic iron before assisted iron—before they are ready to take up the blood and carry it through the human system. Notwithstanding all that has been said and written on this subject by well-known physicians and thousands of people still insist in doubting. Others with every dose of pills, purgatives, etc., insist on forcing organic iron simply. I suppose to make them feel they are doing something. If strength and power and vitality alone transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable.

"Nuxated Iron is not a patent medicine in its original packages and see that the name Nuxated Iron appears on the package. Do not be induced to accept substitutes. Nuxated Iron is the original iron product and the only reliable preparation that such products are entirely different from Nuxated Iron."

In commenting upon the value of Nuxated Iron as a means for creating red blood, pure health and vitality, Dr. Reginald King, a New York Physician and Medical Author, says:

"Scarcely a day goes by but that I see women who have grown careless, dragging steps and generally weak, tired appearance show unmistakable signs of that anaemic, run-down condition usually brought on by lack of iron in the blood.

"There can be no strong, healthy, beautiful women without iron, and inasmuch as refining processes and modern cooking methods remove the iron of Mother Earth from so many of our most common foods this iron deficiency should be supplied by using some form of organic iron just as we use salt when our food has not enough salt.

"Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your food to change food into living tissue. Without it no matter how much or what you eat your food merely passes through you without doing you good, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly. To those living pale, pasty-faced people I would say, if you want to grow in a well person in iron. Before you can have any appetite, strength, color, or vitality the iron of an anaemic woman is pale, the blood corpuscles lack iron, and after they become weak, nervous, irritable, peevish and sometimes melancholy. Give such a woman a short course of Nuxated Iron and she often gradually becomes an entirely different individual woman, and people also soon notice the change."

Nuxated Iron is now prescribed and recommended by physicians in not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results or your purchase price they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

"DARK STAR" IS FULL OF THRILLS

"The Dark Star," at the Park Theatre this week, is a melodrama of the highest type, filled to the brim with adventure that moves briskly and holds an audience in suspense.

It runs from the usual trend of a photoplay because of the small amount of love element. The "chase" and "spy" stuff is predominant, and done in a way to hold the interest of the observer. It is well done.

The story, by Robert W. Chambers, is somewhat revamped to suit screen purposes as far as continuity is concerned; nevertheless, it can be recognized as the work of that famous author and not the product of the continuity writer using the name of a popular novel and his own story.

Photography is clear; interior and exterior scenes are perfect; the cast supporting Miss Marion Davies is capable indeed.

Notable in the cast are Matt Moore, Dorothy Green and Frederick Cooper. The production is a Paramount-Artcraft special, directed by Allan Dwan. The director's efforts have been well repaid. He has turned out a photoplay that is interesting and entertaining. It ought to draw large audiences and suit the tastes of all playgoers.

The following is a brief synopsis of the play:

Rue Carew, played by Marion Davies, is the young and beautiful daughter of a missionary in Turkey. She is born under the influence of an evil planet—the dark star.

Following her father's death, Rue leaves for America, carrying with her an image containing important military plans that are being sought by German and French agents. All this takes place before the outbreak of the great world war. Many flights and adventures make up the attempts of these agents who seek these papers. There are thrills galore.

Then love takes a hand. Rue meets Jim Norland, a young mill owner, played by Norman Kerry. She again meets him later on and finds that he is a French agent. This is contrary to what the German plotters had led her to believe.

Many incidents take place aboard a ship, winding up with a sensational raid on a Turkish dive, where the hero rescues the heroine from the clutches of the German agents, restoring the documents to the French authorities just before the war dogs of the Germans were let loose upon Europe. As one might imagine, the heroine finds happiness with her hero.

Other pictures were "Safe Insurance," with Bryant Washburn; Mack Sennett's latest comedy, and a news weekly.

Plays That Remain

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—Another week of exceptional prosperity was begun last evening at Selwyn's Park Square Theatre, where "Buddies" began the second week of its Boston engagement. It has been a long time since Boston has been privileged to witness such a remarkable triumvirate as Donald Brian, Peggy Wood and Wallace Eddinger, who, as co-stars, head the organization.

WILBUR THEATRE—"Oh, My Dear," the tantalizing and smart musical comedy, the sixth in the series of New York Princess Theatre intimate offerings from F. Ray Comstock and William Elliott, started on its fifth rollicking week at the Wilbur Theatre last evening without the least indication of any cessation of that lively interest on the part of the public.

TREMONT THEATRE—Henry W. Savage's "See-Saw" began the final fortnight of its engagement at the Tremont Theatre last evening. Full houses have been the rule during its engagement, and last night's audience tested the capacity of this popular playhouse.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"Daddy Long Legs," in which Mary Pickford is appearing twice daily at Tremont Temple, is an attraction which every lover of children—every lover of childhood—should see at once, and see a second and a third time.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—"Damaged Goods," now in its last week at the Majestic Theatre, is proving by the record attendance that the Drama League, the Women's Municipal League and other societies were right when they stated that the general public wished to see this masterpiece of the master playwright of France, Eugene Brieux.

Pemberton Inn

Lovers of variety in its excellence can do no better than to visit Pemberton Inn, the South Shore dining place de luxe, for here indeed is variety at its best. Epicurean foods, served deliciously and expeditiously, seaplane trips in a late model hydroplane, dancing delightfully over the best dancing floor in Greater Boston to the melodies such as only the Banjo Harmony Boys can supply, and swimming in the only salt water open air bathing pool in New England, are among the features of this famous dining place.

GOOD BILLS AT HOME TOWN THEATRES

HYDE PARK THEATRE, HYDE PARK—The best ventilated and coolest theatre in Hyde Park offers its patrons the best and latest screen productions and the latest feature vaudeville acts.

GORDON'S CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE—Presents today and Wednesday Norma Talmadge in "The Way of a Woman," and Bert Lytell in "Unclaimed" on Thursday, Friday and Saturday will feature Dorothy Gish in "Nugget Nell" and all new star vaudeville.

MILFORD BOULEVARD SUMMER THEATRE—Offers a varied program of musical comedy and feature plays, with an entire change of program Thursday. Sunday concerts have also been added, including well known artists. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the Princess Players will appear in the musical comedy, "Love in Mexico," and the feature picture is Jean Sothern in "Pay or No Pay." Thursday, Friday and Saturday the musical comedy is "Seeing and Just Missing," and Norma Talmadge in "Martha's Vindication."

SHAWMUT THEATRE, ROXBURY—Will show today and Wednesday the king of all comedians, Charlie Chaplin, in "Sunny Side," and on the same bill Norma Talmadge in "His Debt," the story of how a Japanese gambler paid his debt to the American girl who saved his life, by sparing her lover. Also Albert Ray in "Be a Little Sweetheart."

MAGNET THEATRE, DORCHESTER—This theatre has been completely redecorated, a new screen installed, and everything has been done to make for the comfort and convenience of its patrons. The new manager has selected some first-class attractions for the coming season. For today and Wednesday the attractions will be Harry Pollard in "A Fight for Love," Marguerite Clark in "Out of the Kitchen," and a Billy West comedy, "Lured," and several other attractions.

MILFORD OPERA HOUSE—Which has recently been purchased by the Elm Amusement Company, with operates theatres throughout the New England States. The whole house has been newly decorated and renovated, is now screen and new appliances installed, and everything has been done to make it a real cozy and up-to-date house. It will now rank among the most first-class amusement houses in this part of the country. The new owners have made contracts for the largest attractions in motion pictures that have ever been shown in this town. Today's performance will open with the latest attraction of Jack Pickford in "Billy Apperson's Dog," Dorothy Gish in "Peggy Polly," and the Martin Monkey comedy, the latter shown for the first time in any city in New England, and also several other attractions.

Coming Events

COLONIAL THEATRE—Raymond Hitchcock in a brand new revue, "Hitch Koo 1919," the third edition of the special class of musical show bearing like title, will open the season at the Colonial Theatre next Monday evening, August 25. The producers of the producers assure that this season's show will be the most pretentious in production and number of skilled entertainers that have yet been presented under this title with one specially talented Mr. Hitchcock at its head. In the company are Charles Howard, Charles Cartwell, Joseph Cook, James J. Doherty, Mark Sullivan, Sylvia Clark, Lillian Kemble Cooper, Ruth Mitchell, Florence O'Denishawn, Betty Beaon and Eleanor Sinclair. The "Hitchy Koo" chorus is promised to be the most beautiful ever assembled.

SHUBERT THEATRE — "Somebody's Sweetheart," which is described by Arthur Hammerstein as "a musical play—different," will open the new season at the Shubert Theatre on Saturday night. The joint work of Alonzo Price and Antonio Bafunno, this piece comes to Boston after a run of nine months in New York.

At the Parks

PARAGON PARK—Last call for the stupendous and magnificent air stunts at Paragon Park, Nantasket. Everyone who has not seen Lieutenant Mark L. Hogue and his fellow fliers perform their death-defying combats in the air, or the spectacular and unforgettable air raids on Paragon Park should take the next boat for this summertime mecca of Greater Bostonians, for the end of their engagement is drawing rapidly to a close.

NORUMBEGA PARK—For theatre-goers looking for a treat no better way can be found than a journey this week to Norumbega Park, where the Liberty Players are presenting "The Country Girl," a rural comedy drama, which appears to be one of the best attractions they have presented this season. The many other attractions of this well-known spot on the Charles River include canoeing, motor boating, dancing, picnicing and a hundred other diversions.

NOVEL DANCING ACT KEITH'S HEADLINER

Two acts far above the average of vaudeville top the bill at Keith's this week, and are surrounded by a number of other excellent attractions which go to make up a remarkably well-balanced performance.

The two "topliners" are Lois Josephine and Leo Henning in a series of beautiful interpretative" dances and songs, and Homer B. Mason, Marguerite Keeler and George E. Romain in a fairy long comedy sketch.

Miss Josephine and her partner do their effective dances against a gorgeous scenic background. In the comedy sketch, a travesty on the stage version of the "eternal triangle," Mr. Romain and his associates did some very clever acting.

Other acts are Van, Cantwell, Murphy and Gilmer, the Harmony Four, Ward & Van in "Off Key," Lillian Fitzgerald in imitations; El Cota in xylophone numbers; Lou Rodrigues, equilibrist, and May Ritchie and Fred St. Onge in a medley of song, dance and patter.

ST. JAMES THEATRE—Dorothy Gish, the female Charlie Chaplin, is now starring at the St. James Theatre in her late comedy hit, "Nugget Nell," also the big Sennett comedy, "The Dentist," making one of the best comedy programs of the season.

Welcome Westboro Hero

Westboro, Aug. 19—Francis Aldrich, another Westboro hero, who was wounded while in active service, has arrived home and was given a royal welcome at the station. He was in the United States marines and is a son of Officer and Mrs. Henry Aldrich, Risley street.

Other Theatres

EMPIRE THEATRE—Amusement of the highest class and in great measure was found at the Empire Theatre yesterday. Unusually large crowds greeted the presentation of "Adrian," an oddity in laughter and songs. Clark and Francis offered a comedy playlet entitled "Mary's Friend," which met with marked enthusiasm. Plunkett and Bates executed novel and pleasing steps. Other good acts are: Cobb and Mc la "Lost 500," Fred Ferdinand in "A Little of Everything" and a daring trio of equilibrists and aerialists. The feature film, "A Society Exile," furnished a wonderful opportunity for Elsie Ferguson.

MODERN AND BEACON THEATRES—"The Career of Katherine Bush," an adaption of the popular novel of the same name, proved to be an innovation at the Modern and Beacon Theatres. Catherine Calvert was all that could be desired in the leading role, and her portrayal of the part of the stenographer is just as realistic as the role of companion. In addition, Bert Lytell enacted the leading role in a picture entitled "Easy to Make Money," which caused no small amount of discussion.

GLOBE THEATRE—Beautiful Elsie Ferguson, in a photoplay entitled "A Society Exile," charmed a crowded house at the Globe Theatre last week. The story is rather out of the ordinary in the way it is told through the great big theme of love dominant throughout and contains several things of interest. In addition to this super production the management offered an all star vaudeville bill which proved to be even a great many thrills.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—"Steady Company" with Louis Dodson in the principal role was presented yesterday at the Columbia Theatre, in conjunction with Alice Mann in "Proofs of Passion," which proved to be a very delightful bill. The program for today includes Theda Bara in "A Woman There Was" and Bert Lytell in "The Lion's Den," both of which are great favorites with movie fans.

BOSTON THEATRE—"Sahara," the great emotional drama, opened at the Boston Theatre yesterday afternoon and will continue every afternoon and night this week. Louise Glaum is the star and is the equal of any dramatic star on the screen. The picture is one of the most stupendous screen productions ever given in Boston.

GAIETY THEATRE—"Step Lively Girls" they call it—the new show that Arthur Pearson is presenting at the Gaiety Theatre for the season's opener—and step lively girls they are. It may be burlesque, but it is certainly girls—real girls and music—real music. The show is packed as full of melody, beauty and fun as any two dollar girl and musical aggregation that ever hit town, and it is clean as the proverbial whistle. Pearson says he will stack his aggregation of pretty, good looks and charm against any chorus anywhere, not barring Ziegfeld at his best, and he has many substantiating specimens to back his boast.

MATCHPLAY FOR TITLE GOLFERS

Evans Rules FaVorite to Land Honors—Ouimet Suffering From Tonsilitis

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19.—Match play was reached in the National Amateur Amateur Golf championship tournament at Oakmont today. The course was heavy from hard rains and showers during the week. The distance was eighteen holes.

There was some uncertainty as to whether Francis Ouimet would be in condition to play today. The Boston player complained of a severe cold in the head and throat yesterday and almost a state of collapse.

He was so weak that he could not go to a hotel, and remained at the clubhouse for the night. Despite the entreaties of his wife and friends he insisted on playing today. He is suffering from tonsilitis.

Chick Evans remains the favorite in the pools, with Robert Gardner, Ouimet and Travers following in the order named. S. Davidson Herron of the Oakmont club, J. S. Manion of St. Louis and Theodore Armour, N. Y. A. C. the field yesterday and tied at the top medal honors.

Among the veterans eliminated was Oswald Kirkby, the Metropolitan champion.

Matchmaker Chet Rowe of the West Side A. C. announced today. The card for the opener will be completed this week. The club will conduct one show every two weeks this season. Heavy theatrical bookings at the Armory make weekly shows impossible.

According to reports in local boxing circles another club will soon be in the running using Knickerbocker Hall, and offering opposition to the West A. C.

NAVY PETTY OFFICERS AFTER HIGHER WAGES

Newport, R. I., Aug. 19.—The chief petty officers of the navy are making a strenuous effort to secure an increase of pay to meet the higher cost of living. During the war they have been receiving a family allowance which has helped them to get along, but this must soon end and they will be thrown back to their old basic pay which ranges from $36 to $77 per month, plus $5.62 for each enlistment enlistment after the first, until it reaches 120 after twenty years of service.

MEANS WAR AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

"If America attempted to offer to Ireland military, financial, economic or political aid, even by way of agitation in this country, as is now going on, all other members of the League of Nations would be bound to take action, military in the last analysis, against this country," writes Edward F. McSweeney in an extraordinary article tomorrow in the Boston American, and part of the great series, "Ireland, An American Question."

TENNIS FINALS SLATED FOR TODAY

Rain Causes Mixup in Scheduled Tourney for Visiting Stars

For the first time since the national doubles tennis championship tournament started, at the Longwood Cricket Club's Chestnut Hill courts, rain caused a postponement. Unless the rain continued or the courts were declared too soggy, the meet was scheduled to be wound up today, with the Australian team of Norman E. Brookes and Gerald L. Patterson in the challenge round, against William T. Tilden, 2nd, of Philadelphia, and Vincent Richards of New York, the present doubles title holders, for the championship.

The postponement of the match was a great disappointment to the young champions as well as to the several hundred persons who came out to the courts furnished with raincoats and umbrellas.

Young Richards and his partner were in their flannels and anxious to play, but the visitors did not shed their heavy coats. As it is there seemed no possibility today of the match not being played here at all, for Tilden and Richards declare that if it could not go on today they would not remain over Wednesday. In that event the Australians faced the prospect of winning by default unless it should be decided to play elsewhere.

All four players are entered in the tournament of the Meadowbrook Club at Southampton, L. I., which was slated to get under way yesterday, and a further postponement of the deciding match here today would serve to eliminate them, via the default route, from participation in the meet, which is being looked forward to as an opportunity to get in some needed practice in individual matches in preparation for the greatest event of the tennis year, the National Singles Championship tournament on the West Side Club courts at Forest Hills, L. I., which starts a week from today.

COMBINATION PARK RACES PUT OVER

The opening day of the races for the Short Stop horses at Combination Park was postponed till tomorrow on account of the weather. There will be three races on the card. In the 2:10 pace Minor Hal and Hellinaline are the favorites. The 2:21 pace looks like a certain win for the Providence mare Avery, with Sure Mike a strong contender. Proud Peter and Peter Hopeful are both entered in the 2:16 trot and a close race should result.

SOUTHAMPTON TENNIS SINGLES START TODAY

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The tennis singles tournament in which National Champion Robert Lindley Murray, the Australian stars, Brookes and Patterson, and many players of prominence are entered was due to start today.

RED SOX OUT TO BEAT BROWNS IN FINAL

Hoyt Faces Liefield in Getaway Game in the Mound City

St. Louis, Aug. 19.—The first half of the final Western journey for the Red Sox came to a close today. Waite Hoyt was stoked by Manager Barrow to make the count three out of four from Jim Browne, while Jimmy Burke relied on the old war horse, Lefty Leifield to secure an even break.

With series looked with the Indians and the Tigers the Red Sox, although out of the race, will have a chance to dip their finger in the pennant pie. The Indians and Tigers are hanging on the heels of the first place White Sox waiting for Kid Gleason's first pilgrim to lose their grip and they will close their series with the tail-end Athletics today. The White Sox will mix with the Senators and the Yankees and the Red Sox may send considerable help to the Chicago entry.

The change in the Red Sox is remarkable. When they were here in their other visits they played with the Indianapolis spirit. On this trip they are jawing with the umpires and scrapping with the other players.

The Red Sox had cause to complain when they were deprived of a game by Umpire Nallin. Ed Barrow believes in winning the games on the field and not offering any alibi for the defeat against the umpire, but here was a game when the umpire turned the game all around.

It finished with the Red Sox behind, 4 to 3, according to the official figures, but the official figures were altered by Nallin, who called Walter Gerber safe at first base on a grounder to Scott with one run in, three on and two out. Han Nallin rendered the decision. As it looked to everyone else in the park Gerber would have been out and the Browns would have scored one run in the inning. The mistake gave them two runs.

"The snappy play of the Red Sox deserves praise. They are out of the pennant race, but they are not stepping aside without an argument. They are running out infield grounders, and they are trying all sorts of tricks to win from the clubs which are in the world series race.

Barrow does not intend to bait youngsters and experiment during the closing days. He realizes that all he needs is pitching. He has a good outfield and an excellent infield. The loss of Joe Bush and the kink in George Ruth's pitching arm has handicapped the Red Sox this season considerably. With Bush on the shelf, Barrow has been forced to try other pitchers. Ray Caldwell disappointed and George Dumont failed to come through, but with Dennock developing and with Hoyt promising to become a mound marvel, the Red Sox may come back in 1920.

CHAPMAN TO TRY COMEBACK AT OVAL

Philadelphia Rider Is Teamed With Wiley Against Carman and Bowker

One of the strangest stories in the history of the bike racing game was brought to light in the signing of George Chapman of Philadelphia, as teammate for George Wiley against Clarence Carman and Young Bowker of Lynn in the forty-mile team race at Revere tomorrow night.

A jockey lost a race for Chapman, but also served to win him a race.

The story goes that the Quaker City lad while on his way to Boston was robbed—his entire savings going by the board—with the result that he rode a poor race—one of the worst ever.

He was done as far as Revere was concerned, although he had shown on previous meetings that he could hold his own with the best of them. Then came the story of the robbery and the request that he be allowed to show the local fans he was not as bad as appeared, and he was signed up.

In addition to the motor-paced race, Manager Butler will stage a tandem team race with MacPartland and Logan meeting Parding and Upham.

The regular card of amateur and professional events will also be run off.

Lexington Meet

Entries for the races at the third annual field day of the Catholic Club of Lexington, Labor Day, will close Wednesday, August 27. The feature event of the day will be the annual "Paul Revere Marathon," from Boston to Lexington, a distance of ten miles.

Mosquito-Eating Fish

THE Bureau of Fisheries states that the top minnow is especially suitable for antimosquito work because it seeks its food at the surface; is prolific; gives birth to well-developed young, therefore requiring no special environment and thrives under a great variety of conditions in areas suitable for the support of the mosquito larvae.

Stocks Stronger in New York During Morning

PROFIT TAKING FOLLOWS AN ADVANCE

Market Opens Active and With Gains Extending Through the List

By W. H. ROSS
Financial Editor.

Stocks were stronger in the New York market during the morning, lower prices being followed by a recovery. Profit taking was resumed in the second hour, and the list became irregular, with numerous issues showing losses of 1 to 3 points. Steel common, Mexican Petroleum, Baldwin, Marine, Atlantic Gulf, Central Leather, Texas Company, Utah Copper and Studebaker were among the leaders in the upward movement, while Reading, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Crucible Steel were conspicuous among the issues showing losses. Sales were in excess of 1,000,000 shares for the first time since June 20.

Trading was in large volume during the morning hour, but became dull and narrow in the afternoon session. Transactions were confined largely to the specialties, the railroad list remaining practically neglected throughout the day. Sales were in excess of 1,000,000 shares for the first time since June 20.

PRICES HIGHER AT OPENING.

The market resumed the upward movement of the intermediate past at a substantial advance, initial gains ranging from fractions to 2 points. Strongest stocks at the opening were Steel common, Mexican Petroleum, Baldwin, Marine, Atlantic Gulf, Central Leather, Texas Company, Utah Copper, Studebaker, Reading, Pennsylvania and Southern Pacific. Gains in these issues ranged from fractions to more than three points.

Trading was in large volume during the morning hour, but became dull and narrow in the afternoon session.

Trading was resumed in the second hour, following the noon recess, on a somewhat irregular basis, with numerous issues showing losses of 1 to 3 points from the top prices.

PUBLIC HAS BEEN LIQUIDATING.

Selling of stocks yesterday was in response to the announcement that speculators of this country had come to an agreement relinquishing holdings of securities to the public, whether that goes after the war is ended or not. The people are not disposed to consider why conservative speculators are willing to sell their stocks. But people are not enough to profit by the opportunities are not the only ones who want ready money. It will involve a new flow of capital soon as stocks are distributed. This was clearly indicated yesterday by the little experiment. Money was not withdrawn from the banks to meet the orders promptly. Attendance on the exchange was smaller than on any day of the traction strike and the indications are that many brokers had not returned after the week-end.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN AUGUST 19, 1919 BOSTON

Curtis' Stand Is Right, but Police Should Be Treated With Justice

Police Commissioner Curtis takes the position that it is one thing for the employes of a private enterprise to organize and quite another thing for government employes to do so, for the right to organize implies the right to strike, and to strike against the government is to attempt to coerce the judgment of public servants by causing the public serious inconvenience.

Commissioner Curtis seems right. The American people for the last generation and more have constantly struggled to uphold majority rule and majority interests against the aggressions of a more highly organized minority. It is true that the class which most loudly denounces the idea that our splendid body of policemen should organize is the very class which sings another tune when a highly organized financial group or union attempts to control the government servants by methods far more dangerous than a strike. But two wrongs do not make a right.

On the other hand if it is wrong for public employes to form a militant labor organization, it is also wrong for the government to take advantage of their unorganized condition to neglect their interests. When the government invites men to enter its employment and employs their service for a long time, it leaves them less able to obtain employment elsewhere. Thus it takes from them something that it does not undertake to give back under any circumstances. Thus, the government objecting to any organization of its employes, must be prepared to be a model employer, to anticipate the just demands of its employes, to make conditions of labor better than the employes could reasonably hope to make them by organization.

If the government does not want its employes to organize, it must always deal with its employes so that they will not feel the need to organize.

Community Service Needed During Peace

During the war the necessity for some attempt to ameliorate the strangeness of the community to those suddenly drawn by the war to the military camps and to munition factories from distant parts of the country was recognized. The bad effect upon efficiency caused by melancholia, which arises from loneliness, and of distempers, physical and moral, that come from discontent was appreciated as a serious problem, and an attempt came to meet it by what came to be known as the Community Service. This service did real effective work during the war. How much efficiency it salvaged may never be known, but that its work was satisfactory everyone acquainted with it recognized.

One of the compensations of a great war intelligently conducted is the fact that it makes absolutely intolerable certain evils which were borne before, because they were half tolerable. War compels us to seek an immediate remedy, even a revolutionary remedy, with respect to its radical character, for evils which we regarded, but paltered with. The whole community during the war is shot through and through with a sense of public service, and it is, therefore, easier to get motion out of our citizens—to get them to undertake social service that costs money, when in peace times they might quibble over it and postpone it.

Now, the danger is that in the return of peace will come the return of negligence and indifference towards social wrongs. That the more fortunate will forget Cain's answer, "I am not my brother's keeper," will not do in this year of our Lord, and the community which gives that answer some day will have to pay the penalty which overtakes a community as an individual when guilty of unenlightened shortsighted intelligence. The impetus which the war gave us in the right directions should be preserved. One of the things which we ought to preserve is the Community Service. It will cost $2,000,000 to continue during peace times the Community Service which was enjoyed during the time of war. Its beneficiaries will not be confined to the workers in the munition factories or in the military camps, but those who feel the need of a common friend between himself and his neighbor whom he wants to know, and who needs all the things that the Community Service has shown itself able to give the community which it serves. It is a constructive philantrophy.

The Opportunity of Ages Is Calling Our Flag to Sea

Here is a truth that ought to mark the beginning of a new epoch for the United States:

Whereas, in 1914, Great Britain had more than nine tons of commercial shipping to our one, by the middle of 1920 we shall have 16,700,000 tons to England's 16,345,000.

Unfortunately, there is an "if."

We shall have the lead over England next year IF the Government at Washington compels the Shipping Board to complete in good faith the 9,000,000 tons now contracted for but not finished, and stops it from selling any more of its Government-built ships to foreign competitors.

No more stupid policy could be conceived than that of building good ships at high prices with money taxed out of the American people and then selling them at a sacrifice to private American interests ready to ally themselves with foreign competitors, or selling them to foreign competitors directly.

The Congress ought to halt this nonsense at once.

And if it doesn't, the people whose taxes built these ships, and whose future welfare as consumers requires that they be sailed under the American flag to carry American merchandise at reasonable rates, should promptly advise it.

Our big opportunity to take on the seas the place our wealth, size and commerce demand is NOW.

Providence has thrust it upon us.

But Providence probably won't provide a second chance if we throw this great opportunity away.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.—I am a boy, ten years old, and whenever my mother sends me to the grocer's or butcher's on an errand for her they wait on every grown person that was there before me and all the grownups who come in after me, and I wait until I get so tired I go home without the meat or groceries and then get a scolding for not bringing them.

What must I do? You advise other boys, perhaps you will help me.

BILLY BAKER.

MY DEAR Billy.
IT MUST be
THAT ALL small boys
HAVE THE very same trouble
FOR I can remember
WHEN I was a boy.
AND THEY'D send me to the store
AND THERE'D be a crowd.
AND NOBODY'D wait on me.
AND I'D stand there,
AND ALL the time
I'D KEEP getting madder,
AND I'D clean forget
ABOUT THE Band of Hope
AND THE Sunday school
AND SAYING grace at dinner,
AND EVERYTHING.
AND ONE time
WHEN I was doing this
MY FATHER came in
AND I told him
ABOUT HOW I was treated,
AND HE spoke to the grocer,
AND THEY both laughed.
AND I was that mad,
I COULD have bit a cat.
AND THE grocer handed me
A CAKE of maple sugar,
AND A few minutes later
HE GOT me what I wanted
AND I went home.
AND AFTER that,
WHENEVER HE'D keep me waiting
I'D GO over to the barrel,
AND GET a cake of maple sugar,
AND SIT there and eat it.
AND THE grocer would charge it.
AND FATHER would say,
"WHAT'S ALL this maple sugar,
"ON THE grocery bill?"
AND I'D speak up and say,
"THE GROCER kept me waiting."
AND I'M telling you all this,
JUST SO you will know,
THAT SINCE the world began,
ALL SMALL boys
HAVE HAD the very same trouble.
YOU COMPLAIN about,
AND THE only way to fix it,
IS FOR all the small boys
WHO ARE growing up now
TO MAKE up their minds
THAT WHEN they grow up,
THEY'LL CHANGE the world around.
AND PUT the small boy first,
AND THE grownup last.
AND THAT will be bad
BECAUSE THE small boys now,
WILL BE grownups then
AND THERE you are.
AND IT'S a terrible mess.
AND THERE'S nothing to do,
EXCEPT TO grow up.
AND BE waited on first.

I THANK you.

THE INFALLIBLE COLONEL

By S. E. KISER

The Senate may try to induce Colonel House to interpret the covenant of the League of Nations.—Washington Dispatch.

WHEN Colonel House has made it clear
To every senatorial skeptic
That there is not a thing to fear,
And that we need no antiseptic
To sprinkle on the places where
It looks as if there might be danger;
When House has shown that all is fair,
With no League dog in any manger—
If metaphors may be compounded—
Why not have other corners rounded?

THE Colonel seems to have a gift
For penetrating complications;
He speaks, and fogs begin to lift,
He clears beclouded situations.
Why not, then, let him tell the world
The cause and cure of hard conditions?
He may be sure that when we've hurled
The profiteers from their positions,
Because he showed us how to do it,
We'll build a throne and lead him to it.

WE haven't any doubt at all
That House could solve the servant question
And cause the price of coal to fall
And rid mankind of indigestion.
Let House inform us how to tell
Good mushrooms from the poison vagrant,
And how to kill the onion's smell
And how to make one's garlic fragrant.
With Ever-Ready House to guide us,
Why should perfection be denied us?

GIVE HIM A WORD OF ENCOURAGEMENT.

Street car fares are being increased and the prices of shoes continue to advance. The boy who is learning to walk on his hands may not be wasting his time.

NOT SO BAD, FOR A GIRL.

"I love you no more," she said when he
Had asked her if she would become his wife;
Then he said they had trebled his salary;
"I love you no more, dear," whispered she,
"I love you no more than I do my life."

LET BALL PLAYERS LEARN TO BE GOOD.

When Judge Landis becomes the supreme ruler of the baseball universe, any player who assaults an umpire or jumps his contract will be fined $25,000,000. Other things may go to the dickens (our polite alias for devil), but baseball must be saved, even if we have to rob the Supreme bench to insure the desired salvation.

NOTHING IN IT

It may be better to be a big frog in a small puddle than a little frog in a big puddle, but why wish to be any kind of a frog in a puddle where all the rest of the frogs are dead ones?

IT'S HARD TO UNDERSTAND GIRLS

If we address them, girls get mad
And ask policemen to pursue us;
But it appears to make them glad
To show their bony bare knees to us.

EDUCATION VITALLY NEEDED BY ALL

By Garrett P. Serviss

AT the recent semi-centennial celebration of Cornell University, thousands of graduates, representing a dozen successive four-year classes, assembled together in rejoicing crowds on the beautiful hill above Cayuga Lake, and renewed half-forgotten ties, recalled old fellowships and cheered for Alma Mater.

Sitting around the gorgeously striped canvas pavilions, pitched on the greens, were groups of gray-haired graduates of the early seventies and eighties, manufacturers, heads of great industrial enterprises, authors, preachers, professors, farmers—every one wearing his class button with his name printed on it, as a ready means of introduction and identification. They came from almost every State in the Union, and many motored to the meeting from long distances, often more than a thousand miles.

As I looked at them, and noticed how many of the faces of the older men seemed to bear only the marks left by worldly prosperity, acquired by stern methods, I felt a certain disappointment. Boys whom I had known as rosy-cheeked, careless free-hearted, open-minded, eager for learning, full of delighted astonishment at the new world that opened before them in the academic halls, were now roll-chinned, puff-lipped, hard-cheeked, cold-eyed, pompous, unresponsive personages, apparently proud only of the treasures they had piled up where moth and rust corrupt, and with no outward sign that any influence upon the spirit had been implanted in them during their student days.

A Gain of Something

And yet, as I found out, even they had gained something in those early days, of which they seemed hardly aware. They had not comprehended Emerson's difficult axioms of "literary ethics;" they had not, with him, rejected that maxim of low prudence," which avers that "the first duty is to get land and money, place and name"—such things were beyond them, as they must be beyond the vast majority of the earth's inhabitants, as long as the physical bases of human life remain what they are, but, nevertheless, they had got a little leaven which virtually transformed their lives.

It had put books into their houses and memories and thoughts of other things than ledgers, profits, prices current and idle, pretentious, or vicious amusements into their heads. And I saw that their sons and daughters had benefited from their touch of liberal education more than they who had received it. In the second generation it had become an inheritance.

But in equally numerous cases it was outwardly evident that the early influences of college and university life a long generation ago, acting upon young minds that had come direct from the great body of "the people," I. e., from families whose livelihood was gained mostly on farms and in workshops, had remained in full force.

A Real Error

It is an error to assume that a liberal education is suitable only for persons who are destined to engage in the "learned professions." It is suitable for everybody who can get it. It is the surest means of guarding and improving our institutions. As long as but a part—and a small part—of the earth's inhabitants possess a broad educational training, enabling them to cast a comprehending look over the world's affairs, so long nations will continue to be governed by minorities. Technical schools are simply modern substitutes for the old system of apprenticeship. They teach trades, but the university develops minds.

BOSTON SUNDAY ADVERTISER

ONE WAY TO MARRIAGE ON $25.00 A WEEK

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

TWENTY-FIVE dollars a week! In these days of mounting costs, and with all the complex demands of modern life, could you conscientiously advise any one to engage in matrimony upon that income? How would you budget it so as to meet satisfactorily the requirements of family life as they exist today?

That is the problem which has been submitted to me by a group of young people in New York city who are very eager to get married, but are sensibly pausing to look—to consider ways and means—before they leap. Here is their letter:

"Dear Mrs. Woodrow: Of all the many writers in the various newspapers, we have chosen you as being both popular and practical, and are, therefore, writing you to ask your help in solving the difficulty which confronts us.

"We are a number of young couples who have become thoroughly disgusted in trying to figure out how we can get married on $25 a week, since that is the average salary each couple will have at its disposal, and things are so high at present that the proposition looks hopeless.

"What we need, if it can be done, is to have some one tell us how on that amount to secure and furnish a house in the suburbs, how much money will be needed for this and for a start at housekeeping, and also how much should be set aside each week for rent and other living expenses—in short the entire financial end of the undertaking. Once started, we girls feel competent to handle the housekeeping, as we have all had practise at conservation during these war times.

"There are, of course, dozens of articles appearing every day touching on the question, but they are for the most part only cooking recipes or household hints, or else, 'What I Did in a Time of Need,' the experience of some one in a situation such as could probably only occur in that one instance and because of some special opportunity.

A Dubious Undertaking

"What we want is some sound, practical advice such as a father might give to a son or daughter about to be married; only present-day fathers—ours, at least—don't seem to know anything about how things are managed nowadays, and so can give very little real counsel.

"Perhaps, though, you can help us out of our quandary, or else can start something—set the ball rolling—to call out from others suggestions which will be of aid to us. There must be people who would take an interest in our case and be able to give us the desired information. Please don't disappoint us, Mrs. Woodrow; we are so in need of help."

Now, there is an appeal that cannot fail to arouse sympathy. Twenty-five dollars a week. For two that means $12.50 apiece. How is it to be apportioned so as to cover rent, and food, and clothing, and light, and heat, and amusements, and doctor's and dentist's bills, and emergency expenses, and insurance, and at the same time lay by something for the inevitable rainy day?

Frankly speaking, I doubt if it can be done.

How About This Solution?

Still there is a solution. This is an era of combination and cooperation. Why, then, do not these young people—a presumably congenial coterie—pool their issues instead of trying to go it alone? Suppose there are six couples of them, and that each pair would agree to contribute ten dollars a week toward a common fund.

For this amount a house could be secured in the suburbs large enough to give each couple their private living apartments, while the meals could be served in a general dining room. It would be a sort of permanent house party.

This community plan has its disadvantages, of course. There would have to be stringent rules to guard against jealousies, disagreements and intermeddling; but it is certain that for sixty dollars a week a family of twelve can have comforts, conveniences and luxuries that would be denied to a family of two on twenty-five dollars. And each couple would have fifteen dollars for themselves.
